

Discover a World of Free Accomodation

Become a language Au Pair
and teach English abroad

Live with local families, teach them English, stay for free

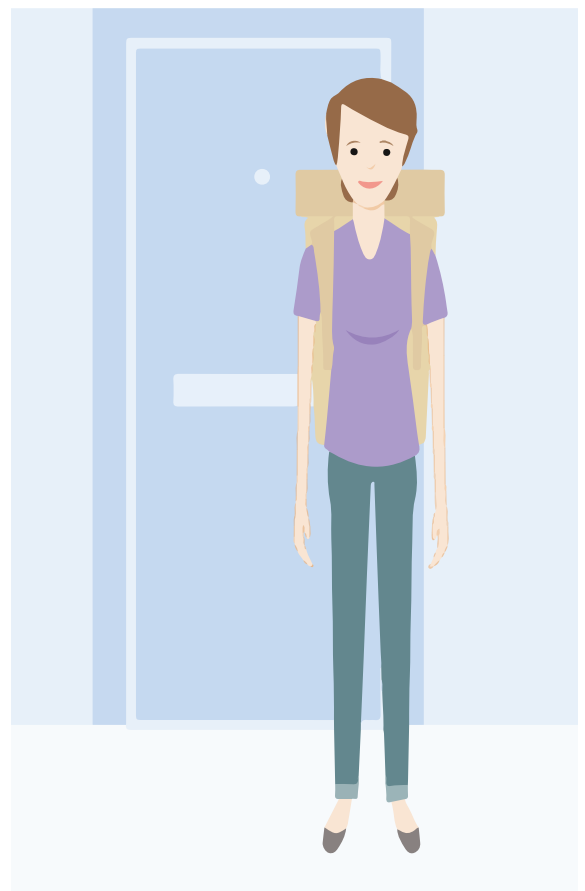

Travelling the world as a 'Language Au Pair' is a new approach to working abroad or a gap year. It isn't a traditional Au Pair job. It's about travelling the world, working in some amazing homes around the world, experiencing new lifestyles, and gaining informal teaching experience.

Booking through Lingoo.com, the world's biggest language exchange and homestay club, allows you to plan an unforgettable work and travel experience and to get inside the local culture by staying in the homes of local families. Your hosts will provide authentic local meals and accommodation while you teach them conversation skills in your own language. Some hosts also offer a modest salary at their own discretion.

How It works

To work as a Language Au Pair, you don't need a formal teaching qualification. You're also not expected to plan and deliver formal lessons. Your role requires you to have an interest in people and a desire to help them improve their conversational language skills.

To qualify as a Language Au Pair, you must also be aged 18-30, unmarried and have no dependants. If this is you, then you can start planning the working holiday of a lifetime on Lingoo.com now. You choose where you stay, when, and for how long. To help you plan, you can see pictures of hosts and their homes, read reviews from other guests who have stayed, and even contact hosts to get to know them before you book.
